

ADVENTURE EDUCATION

methodological seminar

2-7 October 2023, Georgia

The seminar is a space to discuss adventure education as approach within the non-formal learning, to share methods of adventure, outdoor and experiential learning as well as to network for European Solidarity Corps projects.

The seminar has open format, inviting participants to be co-owners of the learning process.

The seminar will be run in the Adjarian mountains of western Georgia. We will live and work in Gomarduli Dao Space, a "safe place to live through the turbulent times, connect with yourself and meet people close in spirit".

there are few cats and a dog around the space; cows and horses in the area;

the cottages are heated, but make sure to bring warm clothes and socks / slippers to move around;

ADJARA

Adjara is a region of western Georgia, between the Black Sea coast and Lesser Caucasus mountains. It is a region of ancient history and vivid cultural diversity. Gomarduli village and all district of Shuakhevi are predominantly Muslim with many mosques in the landscape.

The closest airport is Batumi (ca. 2 hours drive) and Kutaisi (ca. 4 hours drive). Arrivals are expected on Monday 2nd October (please not too late), departures on 7th October (preferably not too early). We will provide the transfers.

The space is located 1200 m. above sea level. In October the day temperatures are around 15-17° C and in night 8-10° C, but check the weather forecast before departure. Make sure to bring warm and comfortable clothes and shoes appropriate for hiking (incl. wet conditions). Pack in backpack, not suitcase. Take a bottle or so for your water (tap water drinkable) and smaller bag to carry your stuff during trips.

Don't forget to bring some materials / products about your organisation and country!
